

do not require restraint or holding facilities. Sections 92.102(d), 92.203(d), 92.303(d), 92.403(e), 92.503(e), and 98.33(d) of the regulations list the limited ports having inspection facilities for the importation of certain birds, poultry and poultry products, horses and horse products, ruminants and ruminant products, swine and swine products, and germ plasm, respectively.

On February 7, 1995, we published in the Federal Register (60 FR 7137-7138, Docket No. 94-110-1), a proposal to amend §§ 92.102(d), 92.203(d), 92.303(d), 92.403(e), 92.503(e), and 98.33(d) of the regulations by removing Denver, CO, from the list of limited ports of entry for animals and animal products that do not require restraint or holding facilities.

We solicited comments concerning our proposal for 60 days ending April 10, 1995. We did not receive any comments. The facts presented in the proposed rule still provide the basis for this final rule.

Therefore, based on the rationale set forth in the proposed rule, we are adopting the provisions of the proposal as a final rule without change. Executive Order 12866 and Regulatory Flexibility Act.

This rule has been reviewed under Executive Order 12866. For this action, the Office of Management and Budget has waived its review process required by Executive Order 12866.

Only certain animals and animal products from Canada and germ plasm have been imported into Denver, CO, during the past several years. Therefore, we believe that the primary impact of this final rule will be on importers of those animals and animal products from Canada and importers of animal germ plasm. These importers will no longer be able to import these articles through the Stapleton International Airport, which is located in Denver, CO. However, there have been few shipments of animals, animal products, or germ plasm imported through Denver, CO, during the past year. After removing Denver, CO, as a limited port of entry, there are still many ports throughout the United States that will remain available as alternate ports, including over 20 limited ports. Because of the reasons provided above, we believe that removing Denver, CO, from the lists of limited ports will have little if any economic impact on importers or other entities, large or small. We do not anticipate any change in the volume or number of shipments of animals, animal products, or germ plasm entering the United States, or in the number of persons importing them, due to removing Denver, CO, as a limited port.

Under these circumstances, the Administrator of the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service has determined that this action will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

9 CFR Part 94

[Docket No. 94-137-2]

Change in Disease Status of Spain Because of Swine Vesicular Disease

AGENCY: Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, USDA.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: We are declaring Spain free of swine vesicular disease. As part of this action, we are adding Spain to the list of countries that, although declared free of swine vesicular disease, are subject to restrictions on pork and pork products offered for importation into the United States. There have been no outbreaks of swine vesicular disease in Spain since April 1993. This rule relieves certain prohibitions and restrictions on the importation of swine and fresh, chilled, and frozen meat of swine into the United States from Spain. However, because African swine fever continues to exist in Spain, certain pork and pork products will continue to be prohibited. EFFECTIVE DATE: May 26, 1995.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Dr. John Blackwell, Senior Staff Veterinarian, Import/Export Animals, National Center for Import and Export, VS, APHIS, Suite 3B05, 4700 River Road Unit 38, Riverdale, MD 20737-1231, (301) 734-7834.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

The regulations in 9 CFR part 94 (referred to below as the regulations) govern the importation into the United States of specified animals and animal products in order to prevent the introduction into the United States of various animal diseases, including rinderpest, foot-and-mouth disease (FMD), bovine spongiform encephalopathy, African swine fever, hog cholera, and swine vesicular disease (SVD). These are dangerous and destructive communicable diseases of ruminants and swine.

On February 7, 1995, we published in the Federal Register (60 FR 7138-7139, Docket No. 94-137-1) a proposal to amend the regulations by adding Spain to the list in § 94.12(a) of countries declared free of SVD. We further proposed to add Spain to the list in § 94.13 of countries that have been declared free of SVD, but from which the importation of pork and pork products is restricted.

We solicited comments concerning our proposal for 60 days ending April 10, 1995. We did not receive any comments. The facts presented in the proposed rule still provide a basis for this final rule.

Therefore, based on the rationale set forth in the proposed rule, we are adopting the provisions of the proposal as a final rule without change.

Effective Date

This is a substantive rule that relieves restrictions and, pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 553, may be made effective less than 30 days after publication in the Federal Register. This rule relieves certain prohibitions and restrictions on the importation of swine and fresh, chilled, and frozen meat of swine into the United States from Spain. We have determined that approximately 2 weeks are needed to ensure that Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service personnel at ports of entry receive official notice of this change in the regulations. Therefore, the Administrator of the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service has determined that this rule should be made effective 15 days after publication in the Federal Register.

Executive Order 12866 and Regulatory Flexibility Act

This rule has been reviewed under Executive Order 12866. For this action, the Office of Management and Budget has waived its review process required by Executive Order 12866.

This final rule amends the regulations in part 94 by adding Spain to the list of countries that have been declared free of SVD. This action relieves certain prohibitions and restrictions on the importation of swine and fresh, chilled, and frozen meat of swine into the United States from Spain. However, other requirements will continue to restrict the importation of live swine and pork and pork products.

Even without considering the export-constraining effects of the restrictions that will remain in effect, it is unlikely that the change in Spain's disease status will noticeably affect U.S. markets for swine and fresh, chilled, and frozen meat of swine. Due to current restrictions, the United States does not import any uncooked pork or pork products from Spain. In 1991, the United States did not import any pork or pork products from Spain. In 1992, the United States imported only 21 metric tons of prepared and preserved pork products from Spain, valued at approximately $69,000, and representing only 0.008 percent of total U.S. pork imports for that year.

Further, Spain has historically imported significantly larger amounts of pork and pork products than it exports. During 1991 and 1992, Spain imported 66,300 metric tons of pork while exporting only 13,000 metric tons ("FAO, Production Yearbook, 1992," 1992, and "FAO, Trade Yearbook," 1992). Given Spain's negative trade balance for pork and pork products, and since it is unlikely that Spain would export a significant portion of its pork exports exclusively to the United States, the effect of this final rule on U.S. domestic prices or supplies or on U.S. businesses, including small entities, will be negligible.

Under these circumstances, the Administrator of the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service has determined that this action will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

Executive Order 12778

This rule has been reviewed under Executive Order 12778, Civil Justice Reform. This rule: (1) Preempts all State and local laws and regulations that are inconsistent with this rule; (2) has no retroactive effect; and (3) does not require administrative proceedings before parties may file suit in court challenging this rule.

Paperwork Reduction Act

In accordance with the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 (44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq.), the information collection or recordkeeping requirements included in this final rule have been approved by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), and there are no new requirements. The assigned OMB control number is 0579-0015.
